

New Construction Time Line

Meet with your architect and builder to design and finalize your prints

HOME THEATER: If you intend to build a home theater room we need to assist in the specifications and size for this room. Home Connections will guide you in matters of wall construction, possible platforms, heating & air, and electrical. All of these factors contribute to giving you the ultimate theater experience.

LIGHTING CONTROL: Details of a low voltage lighting control system must be specified before bids are requested from subs. The electrician must be given a load schedule from Home Connections to give you an accurate estimate.

STRUCTURED WIRING: If Home Connections is installing a structured wiring package for you, the electrician should know this so they don't include this expense on their bid.

Builder gets bids from subs to present a final job cost

You should have met with a Home Connections system designer by now and focused your ideas so we can give your builder an approximate estimate for low voltage wiring. Whatever the services you are taking advantage of from Home Connections, specifying the cost of your audio and video needs will allow your builder to give you a more accurate of the construction cost. Be sure to notify your builder and/or architect that you will be inquiring about these products. Decisions don't have to be made yet, but it will help to be prepared.

All bids are in, digging begins, and the foundation is poured.

HOME THEATER: Be sure you have a final meeting with a Home Connections System designer to finalize any theater room requirements before framing begins.

Framing Begins

The window of opportunity for us to install the wire and rough-in brackets is often a matter of 1 or 2 weeks. Because of this narrow time frame your home MUST be on our schedule by now to insure we will be available on your dates.

Wiring Begins.

Congratulations, your half way through the building process and your home is ready for insulation and drywall after this phase.

The walls are up, painted, and the carpets on the way!

It is time for Home Connections to install the wall plates and in-wall/in-ceiling speakers. All visible wire and holes will be filled. However, No equipment will be installed until you take possession of the home and have moved in. This is a security measure for all parties.

Closing and move in.

Once again Congratulations! It probably felt like you'd never really be finished. Take a few days to move in your stuff and we will have a technician out to install and program all of your new equipment. Please be patient with us. Depending on the size of your system there may be several days of installation and programming involved. Don't worry most of our systems take no training to operate. However, lessons will be given as often as needed. We will work for dinner :)
